Did He (Your Lord) not find you an orphan, and shelter you?

Did He not find you astray, and guide you?
Did He not find you needy, and enrich you?
Gor'aun 93:6-8

Mohammad (Rusool) was an orphan who was found by His Lord. In other words, an Aulem (Divine Teacher) had found him and gave him shelter. Remember that the Aursh/Throne of Allauh is inside of their hearts, and that their will is really the will of Allauh. This explains the many verses in the Gor'aun about Allauh, e.g. fighting, descending etc.

But from the verses, I had initially thought that it was just 1 Aulem who had found him i.e. Ule (Ali) or Khezr, but then I realised something else.

Notice the verses, "Did he not find you", "Did he not find you", "Did he not find you".

Why does it not say it once? Why does it not say, "Did he not find you an orphan, astray, and needy, then he sheltered, guided and enriched you?" It does not say that. Why? Because he was found 3 times. In other words he was approached by 3 Olumau (Learned ones) who saw a deficiency in him and made him better.

Did He (Your Lord) not find you an orphan, and shelter you? - Gor'aun 93:6
The first Aulem gave him shelter

Did He not find you astray, and guide you? - Gor'aun 93:7
The second Aulem gave him guidance. He gave him good judgement and discernment. To act in accordance with wisdom and justice.

Did He not find you needy, and enrich you? - Gor'aun 93:8
The third Aulem made him rich. Not with worldly means, but the richness of the heart

> "الغنى غنى القلب"
> "True richness is the richness of the heart."

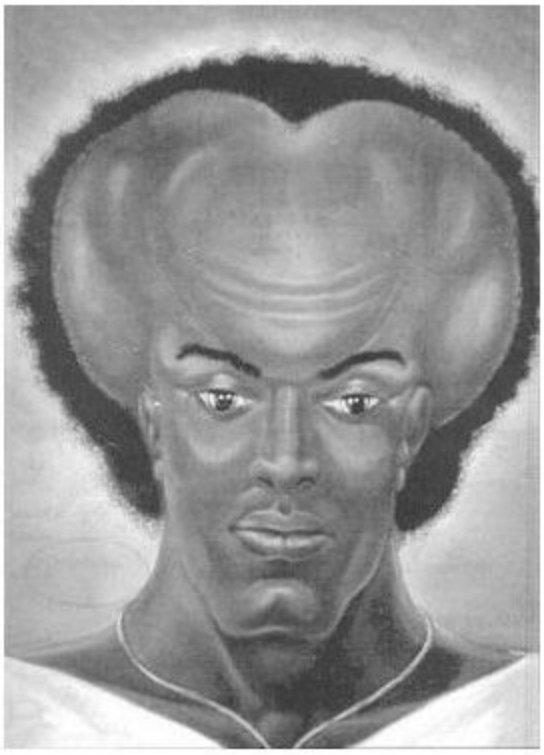
This wording is reported in hadith collections including Sunan Ibn Majah and others, though scholars discuss the exact chains and wording variations.

In other words, you can be poor with having little possessions, but you are rich through your heart, due to what your heart contains of Mu'refah (remembrance of the Aukherah) and by Zohd. Read my article "the solution" to understand

Also there is a black supremacist group who call themselves "NOI" or Nation of Islam. This group hate white people and what's interesting is that they claim that white people were created by an evil advanced scientist by the name of "Yakub" who lived over 6000 years ago in Makkah.



Obviously, we don't judge people by race, but only by their actions. I don't claim to believe that Yakub existed, but I couldn't help but find it interesting in the way that he is described as an advanced scientist living in the desert.

I believe that the Olumau (Learned Ones) really do act as advanced scientists and are very advanced in the fields of Physics, Biology, and Chemistry

In fact, Ule (Ali) was said to have held an iron rod one time and was capable of bringing about either of the two elements (fire or ice) at will!

Ju'far as-Saudeg was also said to have knowledge of cells and microbes:

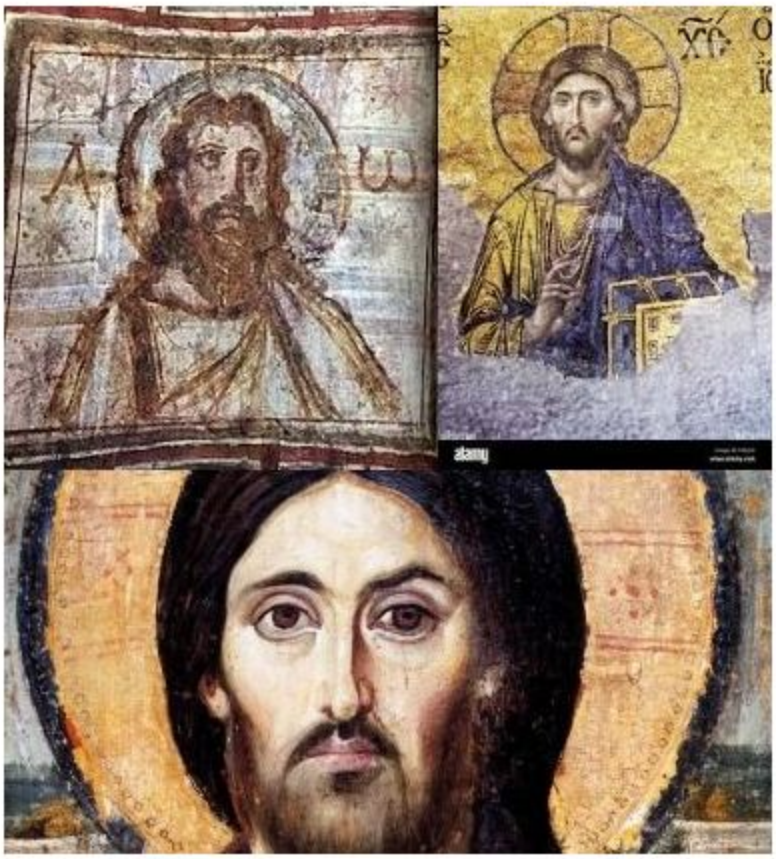
There are also narrations attributed to him describing tiny unseen living things in the body:

> "These small creatures are born in your body, multiply in your body, work in your body, and die in your body."

As you may know, Zakah1 explained that the pictures of Jesus we see today are actually of the Prophet Mohammad:



This is also why the story of the 3 Magi bringing gifts to Jesus is actually the 3 Olumau (Learned ones) who helped the Prophet when he was an orphan! There gifts were refuge, guidance and richness (of the heart)

Some of you also claim that the Prophet was in fact Persian. And that the Gor'aun states that he was neither from Makkuh or Madeenah (which is true). Also some hadeeth say that the Prophet knew Persian words.

This is interesting because the 3 Magi are also said to have come from Persia and they also wear Persian hats (the Galansowah). So this implies that the Prophet was in Persia when he was an orphan and that the 3 Olumau were also Persian.

In my other article about the Malauekah, I mentioned that the heavenly bodies are in fact the Malaks. I mentioned the 5 common ones (Jupiter, Saturn, Mercury, Mars, Venus).

Though I never mentioned the other 2 (Pluto and Neptune). These 2 are said to be the Greek Hades and Poseidon. And they are the brothers of Zeus (Jupiter).

Zeus, Hades, Poseidon

So why am I mentioning this?

This is because they also have their counterparts in the Norse myths. Odin was also said to have 2 brothers, Vili and Ve. So what does this have to do with the article? Well, there's actually a story about them making the first 2 humans, Ask and Embla:

"They were given three gifts by the three gods"

> In stanza 17 of the Poetic Edda poem Völuspá, the seeress reciting the poem states that Hœnir, Lóðurr and Odin once found Ask and Embla on land. The seeress says that the two were capable of very little, lacking in ørlög and says that they were given three gifts by the three gods:

"One of the three gave them the breath of life, the second gave them movement and intelligence, and third gave them shape, speech, hearing and sight"

According to chapter 9 of the Prose Edda book Gylfaginning, the three brothers Vili, Vé, and Odin, are the creators of the first man and woman. The brothers were once walking along a beach and found two trees there. They took the wood and from it created the first human beings: Ask and Embla. One of the three gave them the breath of life, the second gave them movement and intelligence, and the third gave them shape, speech, hearing and sight. Further, the three gods gave them clothing and names. Ask and Embla go on to become the progenitors of all humanity and were given a home within the walls of Midgard.[8]

Remember that Odin is said to be the God of Wisdom. So his two brothers must be similar to him. In other words, the three wise men. Do you see the connection? Especially with how each one gave a gift.

And what's interesting is that the Greek Sisters of Fate and the Norns (Norse counterpart) are 3 in number. They are associated with Wisdom, Knowledge and Fate.

Sisters of Fate, Norns

So what happened to the Prophet? The Gor'aun says that he went back to his Rubb (Lord/Aulem), which is interesting because just like Jesus is said to have ascended to God, this confusion of Mohammad and Jesus has worked. The Gor'aun says:

So when you are done, setup (faunsab),

and turn eagerly (Furqub) to your Lord.

94:7-8

Faunsab = To erect, establish, setup
Furqub (R-Q-B) = Be eager, Desire to go

The Zauhedeen are those who love the Aukhera. They are said in the hadeeth to be Ar-Rauqebeen for the Aukherah. In other words, they long to go, and are eager for it.

So R-Q-B is related to travel. A longing to go somewhere.

So when you are done, setup (faunsab), Gor'aun 94:7
In other words, when you have finished your mission, setup. The setting up here is related to transportation.

and turn eagerly (Furqub) to your Lord. Gor'aun 94:8
In other words, get ready to travel to your Lord.

UFO/Spaceships in paintings of Jesus, Do they know something we don't?

So when you are done, setup (faunsab), Gor'aun 94:7
Faunsab = To erect, establish, setup = Pyramid (UFO/Spaceship landing spot)?

Nation of Islam:

"Wallace Fard Muhammad departed or continues to exist aboard a UFO-like craft"

The group most associated with the belief that Wallace Fard Muhammad departed or continues to exist aboard a UFO-like craft is the Nation of Islam (NOI).

More specifically, later teachings under Elijah Muhammad and Louis Farrakhan describe a giant spacecraft called the "Mother Plane" or "Mother Wheel." NOI doctrine teaches that Fard Muhammad did not truly die and is associated with this craft. Wikipedia +1

The belief includes:

- A massive wheel-shaped aircraft ("Mother Plane")
- Smaller "baby planes" identified with UFO sightings
- The idea that Fard Muhammad and certain scientists reside aboard it
- Claims that Elijah Muhammad also survives aboard the craft Wikipedia +1

Mother Plane (UFO)

"This is a silhouette of the ship we could see because of the lights around Fairbanks."
"This is the same size as an aircraft carrier."
"1.5 to 2 times larger in size."
"Pale white light"
"Pale white light."
Jumbo Jet

Wallace Fard Muhammad + Rusoolullauh Mohammad + UFO = Fetrah Confusion

So the Prophet really did depart, and no he is not dead. The Gor'aun says that he will eventually die, but he will be killed:

If he dies or is slain, will you turn back on your heels? 3:144

Some may argue that he was slain because he was poisoned by a woman of the Yahood. But this story is fake. In fact there is a verb used in Arabic to say that one was poisoned:

Think about it. Why didn't Allauh just say "if he dies or rather is poisoned"? Surely that would be better usage, as it would go into more and correct detail. But it does not say that. It says "slain" (G-T-L), which is related to warfare. In other words the Prophet will die fighting the Khuwaurej. The hadeeth tell us:

The hadith phrase is:
لَئِنْ أَدْرَكْتُهُمْ لَأَقْتُلَنَّهُمْ قَتْلَ عَادٍ
La'in adraktuhum la-aqtulannahum qatla ʿĀd.
Meaning:
"If I were to encounter/live to see them, I would kill them like the killing of ʿĀd."
It is narrated regarding the Khawarij in Sahih al-Bukhari and Sahih Muslim.

So he made a hefty promise. How can he go back on it? Some may say that he wasn't sure that he would live till the ends of time, because he says "If". But "If" in Arabic can also be used for something that will happen, like the Gor'aun verse of his death. It says "If he dies".

Will he die?

Of course, as the context of that verse is about other messengers passing away before him. There is also a hadeeth that confirms that he will live in the ends of time.

"They will not have met the Prophet"

Arabic:

> «يا عليّ، واعلم أنَّ أعجبَ الناسِ إيمانًا، وأعظمَهم يقينًا، قومٌ يكونون في آخرِ الزمان، لم يلحقوا النبيَّ، وحُجِبَتْ عنهم الحُجَّة، فآمنوا بسوادٍ على بياض.»

Transliteration:

> Yā ʿAlī, waʿlam anna aʿjaba al-nāsi īmānan wa aʿẓamahum yaqīnan qawmun yakūnūna fī ākhir al-zamān, lam yalḥaqū al-nabiyya, wa ḥujibat ʿanhumu al-ḥujjah, fa-āmanū bisawādin ʿalā bayāḍ.

English:

> "O Ali, know that the most astonishing people in faith, and the greatest of them in certainty, are a people who will exist in the end of time. They will not have met the Prophet, and the Proof will have been hidden from them, yet they will believe through black upon white."

In other words, there will be Olumau in Aukher az-Zumaun (ends of time), but once more will they die or depart to Daur as-Sulaum before the return of the Nubee

> «ما زَهِدَ عبدٌ في الدنيا إلا أنبتَ اللهُ الحكمةَ في قلبِه، وأنطقَ بها لسانَه، وبصَّرَه عيوبَ الدنيا وداءَها ودواءَها، وأخرجَه منها سالمًا إلى دارِ السلام.»

Transliteration:

> Mā zahida ʿabdun fī al-dunyā illā anbatallāhu al-ḥikmata fī qalbihi, wa anṭaqa bihā lisānahu, wa baṣṣarahu ʿuyūba al-dunyā wa dāʾahā wa dawāʾahā, wa akhrajahu minhā sāliman ilā dāri al-salām.

English:

> "No servant renounces attachment to the worldly life except that Allah causes wisdom to grow in his heart, makes his tongue speak it, shows him the defects of the world, its disease and its cure, and brings him safely out of it to the Abode of Peace."

"And brings him safely out of it to the Abode of Peace"

Abode of Peace = Jerusalem/Daur as-Sulaum

I remember reading that there was a splinter Shee'ah faction which probably doesn't exist today, but they had a belief that when you reach a specific stage of enlightenment, you ascend to higher worlds, i.e. you leave this world without death

I may talk more of this in a future article
